IMPORTANT DEAL FOR INDUSTRIAL FUTURE OF BOROUGH CONSUMMATED

Strip of Eight Street Between Railroad and River Sold to Macbeth -Evans Company

TO BUILD AN ADDITION

Plant to be Increased--Borough Secures Option of Tenth Street Ground for Street to the River

One of the most important deals for Charleroi's industrial outlook that has been put through for some time, was finally consummated Tuesday night when council finally passed the ordinance selling to the Macbeth-Evans Glass company the strip of Eighth street leading from the railroad to the river. In part payment for the street the glass company allows the borough an option on a strip of ground at Tenth street for a street to the river and it is agreed that if the borough purchases this ground the price shall not exceed that paid by the Macbeth-Evans people for Eighth street.

For more than a year the Macbeth-Evans company has been negotiating for the purchase of the Eighth street strip and the deal has been nearly consummated at different times only to be held up by some technicality. Lately it was the matter of electric wires of the West Penn Electric company strung over Eighth street, which the glass company wanted moved that held up the deal. This was adjusted between the electric company and Macbeth-Evans people satisfactorily and that completed the last detail

C. R. Peregrine, business superintendent, appeared before council Tuesday night and stating that everything had been arranged as to the technical details for the purchase. A price had been previously agreed upon and council had prepared matters so that it required only the passage of the ordinance to acknowledge the consumation of the deal.

The Macbeth-Evans Glass company will use the strip of ground, it is understood for extending their plant. They have already built a warehouse on a strip on the southern side of Eighth street.

Possibly never has the Macbeth-Evans been so crowded with orders. Never was the local plant working at so great a rate. It is proposed later on to erect an additional plant at the northern end of the present plant for the manufacture of novelty ware, it is stated This matter will probably be decided upon now that the Eight street deal has been put through.

UNION THANKSGIVING SERVICES TO BE HELD

Churches to Join in Holding Annual Meeting at Christ LutheranChurch--Three Addresses to be Made

Preparations are being made for the annual union Thanksgiving service to be held at Christ Lutheran church Thanksgiving evening. Rev. Chalmers E. Frontz the pastor of the church is arranging the program. Three addresses will be given.

The speakers for the services will be Rev. J. T. Hackett, of the First Presbyterian church, Rev. F. A. Richards, of the Methodist Episcopal church and Rev. John R. Burson the new pastor of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church.

Thanksgiving proclamations of President Taft and Governor Tener will be read. Prof I. T. Daniel has been asked to form and conduct a union choir for the rendition of special Thanksgiving music.

It is the plan of the ministers to have a union Thanksgiving service yearly and by a system they have, it would have been the turn of the minister of the Christian church to preach the sermon this year. Owing to Rev. V. G. Hostetter resigning his charge and leaving the first of September, it was deemed best to substitute three ten minute addresses.

NORTH CHARLEROI ORDINANCE PASSED

New Statute Goes Through and Lincoln Avenue Will Be Widened

COUNSEL IS RETAINED

When the North Charleroi council met in session on Monday evening, trouble was threatened over an ordinance which had been prepared looking to the widening of Lincoln avenue Announcement had been made of the purpose of the meeting some days before and at that time the circulation of a petition began condemning the idea of widening the street. When council took up the ordinance there were a number of citizens ready to voice their protests. An amendment was made to the ordinance which eliminated the objections and it pased unanimously. The widening of the street will be for the sole purpose of making room for the locating of poles of the various companies who hold borough franchises, and it will be incidental to the completing of the contract of railway companys and others and will secure for the borough the payment promised by the Pittsburg railway company for paving.

At the same meeting council retained D. M. McCloskey, Esq., to prosecute the case against the Pennsylvania Railroad to have them provide a street from Fourth street to the borough line. It is claimed the railroad now occupies a part of the borough street.

School Board to Meet for Clearing up Business Records

REPORTS OF SCHOOLS

Busines of a general nature will be taken up by the school board at a special meeting called for tonight. Among the business probably will be the reading of the monthly report of Superintendent James G. Pentz. It is the desire of the school board to finish up all business before the present directors go out of office.

LOCAL NEW STATION ATTRACTS ATTENTION ALONG THE VALLEY

While Charleroi is celebrating the opening of the new railroad station here, other towns are bewailing their ill fortune in not being similarly favored by the Pennsylvania railroad. Monongahela complains that the present station there has been in use for a ong period and that the traffic is great, but that the antiquated building is made to answer the needs.

LECTURE ON EUROPE AT SCHOOL HALL

For the benefit of school interests an entertainment will be held at School Hall next Monday night, November 27. It will be a stereopticon travel lecture by David Morrison of Pittsburg. The subject will be "Travel in Europe," and the countries covered will be Great Britain, France, Italy and Switzerland Mr. Morrison has some beautiful stereopticon slides illustrating the principal points of interest in these countries, and the lecture is most instructive and entertaining. A program of entertainment in connection with the lecture will also be arranged.

The Ladies League of the Methodist church are holding a silver social at the residence of Mrs. F. W. Cunningham of Crest avenue this afternoon.

DISPLAY HOLIDAY BARGAINS

Many Christmas Shoppers Begin Their Buying Early

LITTLE OVER A MONTH

Together with the chilly wintry weather of the last few days has come the suggestion of the rapidly approaching holiday period.

But a few days intervene between now and Thanksgiving and Christmas will fololw that holiday in less than a month. In fact Thanksgiving will be nearer Christmas in point of days this year than it has been for years and will be again for an age.

With the thought of the near approach of holiday time comes another consideration, that of the holiday buying. Already the stores are receiving and putting on display their Christmas offerings. Soon the shopping will begin with a rush.

Realizing the desirability of early shopping some have aready begun making their Christmas purchases. To get the Christmas shopping done early is the desire of every storekeeper and it is not from a selfish reason that they wish it, but because they realize the better service their clerks can give now with less strain upon themselves than at a later time in the year. Those who have begun their Christmas shopping are grasping opportunity by the forelock too, for they reason that better values can be secured now without distracting the nerve-racking tour through the crowded stores a week or so before Christmas.

YOUNG NEWSPAPER MAN MAKING GOOD

Western Publisher Pays Beallsville Lad a Deserved Compliment

The Western Publisher of Nov. 15th, date has the following to say concerning Don P. Hawkins, a newspaper man of Beallsville, who is the Beallsville correspondent of the Mail:

"One of Pennsylvania's rising young newspaper men, is Don P. Hawkins of Beallsville, Pa., who, although but eighteen years of age is local editor of The Bentleyville Times. Mr. Hawkins has been doing newspaper work for the past five years. He was made editor of the Bentleyville Times in October 1910; for four years before he had worked for the Monongahela Times Publishing company. He has held the office of superintendent of the street lighting department since he was fourteen years of age. Mr. Hawkins is a special representative of the Tri-State News Bureau, one of the big news organizations of the state."

Passing of Old Station

No Sentiment is Connected With the Disintegration of Old Wooden Structure

Without the least bit of sentiment of the kind pictured in the poem, "Woodman, Spare That Tree," but instead with a haste and a sense of complacency in duty well done, railroad men are busily engaged in tearing down the old Charleroi passenger station. The station went out of use forever as a waiting place for trains on Monday when the handsome and commodious new station was put into use. Lumber taken from the old station will be used in rough work along the railroad

BINGVILLE DANCE IS ENJOYED

Elks and Their Friends Enjoys Evening in Merrymaking

"BARN" IS DECORATED

In point of pleasure, uniqueness, and general appreciation the Bingville barn dance and euchre given by the entertainment committee at the Elks Home Tuesday night was perhaps the most successful social event yet attempted in the series that is given each year About 80 couples were in attendance and all found entertainment in a manner that was highly enjoyable

It was a "tackie" party pure and simple The invitations announced that the affair was a "Bingville barn dance, to be held at the Elks' barn at the cross roads of Fallowfield and Third, in Charleroi." The men folks were bidden to come in Bingville attire and to bring their "gals" trigged out in the same way And they did—that is the most of the hundred and sixty persons, young and old, who found pleasure in the unique form of merrymaking provided.

Nearly everybody who went dressed 'tackie," and there were some unique and original costumes. Old gowns that belonged to their grandmothers and their great-grandmothers

Council Takes Up Lincoln Avenue Question for Action

COMMUNICATION IS READ

State Highway Commissioner Says Another Ordinance is Necessary

Council did not take up the light question officially at their adjourned session on Tuesday night, but deferred the matter until next Wednesday when they will meet. Representatives of the West Penn Electric company and the Welshbach Gas Lighting company were present but when they were told the matter would be deferred until that time, they went home. Meanwhile the gas concern will maintain their two lights on two local streets as experiments. Council is of the opinion that the price asked by the West Penn Electric company for street lighting is too high and will not let the contract, it is stated until a perfect understanding is reached.

The Lincoln avenue grade ordinance was finally passed and placed in the hands of Burgess George W. Risbeck for his signature. A communication was received from State Highway Commissioner E. M. Bigelow that another ordinance would have to be passed in the nature of a petition to the State for State aid in paving Lincoln avenue, this being a formality required. This advice will be acted upon at once.

The Charleroi Telephone company notified council that it accepted the ordinance granting it right to lay conduits underground and to conduct an underground service in the borough.

Borough Engineer Paul G. Elder was authorized to procure two carloads of stone with which to repair streets.

President J. K. Hein was in the chair and members present were: C. O. Frye, Dr. A. O. Davis, Oscar C. Linn and W. H. Calvert.

Looks Over Postoffice

Postoffice inspector H. H. Williams of Greensburg is at the Charleroi postoffice today looking over the books. It is one of his regular visits. Inspector Williams has not been here since the time of the opening of the postal savings institution September 18. The postal savings is in good condition and doing a good business.

MANY POSTAL BANKS IN THIS VICINITY

Practically every town of any pretensions at all along the Monongahela valley will have a postal savings bank when on Thursday the Fayette City postoffice will become a depository. Fayette City is one of the last of the group of towns surrounding Charleroi to be designated as a postal savings station. Monessen was the first, then Monongahela Charleroi and California. The government has been establishing postal savings agencies with great rapidity the last few months. Belle Vernon's bank opened Tuesday.

REPORTS ARE HEARD BY THE W. C. T. U.

The W. C T. U. held a meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. T. Hackett on Fifth street. Matters of importance were taken up. A report was given by Mrs. J. K. Mitchell of the recent State W. C. T. U. convention at Warren. Arrangements were made for forming a young people's society for both sexes to be an auxilliary of the W. C. T. U. A meeting will be held next Tuesday evening for the purpose of organizing at the home of Mrs. Emma Dawson, the W. C. T. U. president.

SOLVING THE PROBLEM

While the question of the assimilation of the foreign element in our midst is occupying the minds of theorists, Pennsylvania, the State most affected, perhaps, is steadily solving the problem. This she is doing in various ways, but the most effective method is through the public schools. Compared with the span of a lifetime the process may appear slow, but in the history of the progress of civilization the process of intellectual advancement was never more rapid.

This leavening process is most apparent when one scans the rolls of the public schools. There will be found Slavic, Italian, Russian, Finnish and other foreign names, and these names will remain on the rolls until the child is 14 years old. The school law makes this attendance compulsory and the requirement is being enforced pretty generally. There is scarcely a community in the industrial section of this State that does not have a large element of foreign born children on its school enrollment and there are some mining communities in Washington county where the school enrollment contains scarcely an English speaking name.

The foreign born child who is turned loose into the industrial field at 14 years of age after eight years' training in the public schools will in all probability make a whole lot better American citizen than the adult who comes to our schores later in life. Of course there are exceptions, but the rule is general and will hold out. The most of the friction and disorder that arises in connection with the foreign element in our midst is due to a lack of proper governing facilities and regulation on our own part. We expect an alien class of people who are inorant alike of language and customs to adopt and conform to American ways without any attempt on our part to train them in our direction. The result is that liberty and license become confounded and complications follow. This will follow so long as the raw material continues to pour in. It is the new crop that makes the trouble. Any one who looks beyond this will be convinced that our State is dealing with the problem most expeditiously in a social way. What is most needed now is intelligent and forcible local direction in every community to look after the law and order part. The lack of this is our own fault—not that of the foreigners.

UP TO THE CITIZENS.

As there are several new councilmen to be inducted into office at the organization of the board next month it is well for these to take some note of the duties that confront them. This office is entirely voluntary and pays no compensation, yet the councilmen constitutes a board of business managers who must collect and expend an average, perhaps of $40,000 a year for ordinary public expenses. This sum constitutes about the fixed charges that council must provide for by taxation before they can think of any improvements.

As Charleroi must advance, it is necesary for council to adopt a progressive and constructive policy which at the same time must not be unduly burdensome to the taxpayers nor a detriment to the interests of the town. Council can issue a certain amount in bonds or the electors can vote a still larger issue whereby paving and other improvements can be done in a lump, or council can levy a higher tax to make a certain amount of improvements yearly. It is up to the citizens and taxpayers to express their sentiments to the council, who will no doubt be glad to have a popular constructive policy indicated by the citizens.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A little four-year-old lad in one of the homes in the hill district was being taught to say his prayers every night by his mother. He had already mastered in a way the Lord's Prayer, when his mother sought to teach him some other devotions. The first time she attempted to vary in this the little fellow interposed a kick.

"Oh, mamma," he exclaimed, "I don't like that prayer at all. I like the one that has something to eat in it."

He referred to the "daily bread" passage in the Lord's Prayer.

Over at the P. & L. E. station at Monessen the other day, while quite a crowd of passengers were waiting for a train considerable commotion was caused by one of the number announcing that he had dropped a five-dollar gold piece. He searched everywhere on the floor, but could not locate it. Others joined in the search which soon became general. Finally, when it began to be painfully apparent that some were thinking the money had been found and kept by some one present, the suggestion was made to the loser.

"Look about your clothes; maybe the money lodged somewhere about you."

The loser felt himself all over and finally with much the same air as a magician, only he looked foolish instead of triumphant, drew the missing coin from the cuff of his trousers which happened to be of the so-called outing variety.

Burden of Hours.

The hours drift by as the dawn or the scent of the rain,
They come as the wind—for a little they are and are gone;
And the Seeker may pause in his Search, to his pleasure or pain,
But the hours go on.

The hours bear joy in their arms which is like unto fire,
White fire which is light to the Seeker and warmth to his heart;
And it catches at this at it goes, with a Seeker's desire,
But he misses a part.

The hours fare into the dark, and the Seeker, in turn,
The load in the arms of the hours departs and is dumb—
Yet who knows but it waits otherwise, as a hearth fire to burn
When the Seeker shall come.

Names in Electricity.

Electricity is the one branch of science that honors the great names in its fundamental terminology. Two years ago a tablet was unveiled at Ampere, N. J., in honor of Andre Marie Ampere, the French physicist who first measured the current and for whom the unit is named. The ohm bears the name of George S. Ohm, a German man of science who discovered the law on which the unit of electrical resistance is based. The volt is named for the Italian Volta, the greatest electrical authority of the eighteenth century, who was the first man to construct a rude electric battery. A farad, the unit of electrical capacity, is named in honor of the English physicist, Faraday; the coulomb, the unit of quantity, for the French physicist Coulomb, and the watt, the unit of power, for James Watt, the Scotch inventor who improved the steam engine.

A German Poser.

That the German authorities can so far unbend as to propound conundrums is only another proof of how little we know our Teutonic relations. In the census papers now being distributed, however, they ask: "If you do not know the date of your birth, how many years old are you?" Which is more humorous and at least as intelligible as "Why is a mouse when it spins?" —London Black and White.

Saving the Waste.

were fished out by the "weemen" folks, while the men dug up old silk hats, long tailed coats and other "duds" that used to be their fathers' "other clothes" back in the sixties and seventies. There were Reubens and Jaspers galore, as well as the bucolic swains of the olden and backwoods type. In feminine attire there were Puritan maids, Pricillas, Sis Hopkins, grandmothers and matrons with the settled air of conviction that their markets were made and the men folk need not look their way. A touch of pathos was added by some of the old finery on display that had been carefully treasured by loved ones now in the great beyond, and was reminiscent of the days when hearts beat warm and true to love and duty and when family ties and neighborly bonds were not so lightly regarded as in these days of strenuous distraction.

The Elks' barn required no vivid stretch of imagination to hark back to the old days of huskin' bees and apple cuts. Corn fodder and bales of hay surrounded the walls and filled the nooks and corners of the hall. Hidden in the corn shocks were numerous pumpkin jack-o-lanters, with electric light connections. A huge harvest moon overlooked the dancing floor of the barn and the lights were switched off ever and anon, which showed the jack-o-lanters and moon effects to good advantage. Those who did not care to dance to the merry music of 'Squire Jenkins' fiddlers, could play euchre in the library, and many Bingville matrons and partners found diversion in this manner. For favors the women winners were awarded pumpkin pies, while the men who won drew a sack of apples.

For refreshments a barrel of sweet new cider was on tap, while huge trays of gingerbread and doughnuts with baskets of apples were conveniently placed. The whole affair was a most successful and enjoyable event, and the committee who arranged and executed the event—'Squire Gideon Jenkins, Hezekiah Brown, Ebenezer Todd, Deacon Hormell and Rufus Fergus are receiving congratulations.

ONE MILLION DOLLARS FOR A GOOD STOMACH

This Offer Should Be a Warning to Every Man and Woman

The newspapers and medical journals recently have had much to say relative to a famous millionaire's offer of a million dollars for a new stomach.

This great multi-millionaire was too busy to worry about the condition of his stomach. He allowed his dyspepsia to run from bad to worse until in the end it became incurable.

His misfortune serves as a warning to others.

Every one who suffers with dyspepsia for a few years will give everything he owns for a new stomach.

Dyspepsia is commonly caused by an abnormal state of the gastric juices, or by lack of tone in the walls of the stomach. The result is that the stomach loses its power to digest food.

We are now able to supply certain missing elements—to help to restore to the gastric juices their digestive power and to aid in making the stomach strong and well.

We know that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are a most dependable remedy for disordered stomachs, indigestion, and dyspepsia.

We want you to try them and will return your money if you are not more than satisfied with the result.

Three sizes 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store. Carroll's Drug Store, 623 Fallowfield avenue, Charleroi.

Roman Coins Found in England.

The process of cleaning the coins found a few weeks ago in a Roman vase in a field upon a farm at Edwinstowe, Nottinghamshire, England, shows that they comprise 369 denarri, dating from 69 to 193 A. Found in the Census Bulletins.

A rather startling feature of one of the recent census bulletins is that concerning mortality with reference to women. Dr. Creasy L. Wilbur, chief statistician of vital statistics, declares that out of all the deaths reported for the age periods from 10 to 24 and 35 to 44 years 29.3 per cent. of them are due to tuberculosis of the lungs. Of the deaths among women workers between the ages of 35 and 54 years heart disease claims an average of 14.49 per cent. The bulletin also shows that between the ages of 35 and 64 6.8 per cent. of the deaths among women is due to cancer, and it also states that of the total number of deaths among women of specified occupation by far the largest per cent. is due to consumption.

Render Unto Caesar—

The agent of a recently completed large New York apartment house had a card placed in all the passenger elevators bearing this notice: "Gentlemen will remove their hats when there are ladies in the car." The cards were taken down after a few days, but there seems to be a difference of opinion as to the reason. The agent says that his aim has been accomplished, while some of the tenants said that he was willing to let the matter of the hats take care of itself after he had read a letter signed by a number of tenants protesting against his "mentorship." "If you want us to take off our hats to anybody let the order come from the janitor," they wrote. "He's the janitor, but you are only the agent."

DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous For Charleroi People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, and Bright's disease, follow as the kidneys get worse. Don't neglect your kidneys. Help the kidneys with the reliable and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in Charleroi.

Mrs Robert Coulter, 207 Prospect avenue, Charleroi, Pa., says: "Some years ago my son contracted the measles and on recovering, I noticed that his kidneys were weak. He had no control over the kidney secretions and this was especially annoying at night. I had often seen Doan's Kidney Pills highly advertised in the local papers and was finally induced to procure a supply at Piper Bros.' Drug Store. I had my son use them according to directions, and before long he was greatly benefitted. He is still using Doan's Kidney Pills, and I am certain that a complete cure will soon be effected.

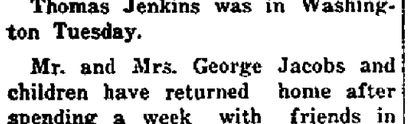
The KITCHEN CABINET



HOWEVER good you may be you have faults; however dull you may be, you can find out what some of them are, and however slight they may be, you had better make some not too painful, but patient efforts to get rid of them. —Ruskin.

THE THANKSGIVING TURKEY.

In choosing a turkey, as any other poultry, it should be plump have smooth legs and the cartilage at the end of the breast bone should be pliable Cock turkeys are usually considered better eating than hen turkeys, unless the latter are young and plump.

A turkey weighing nine pounds should roast from two and a half to three hours. There are such differences in taste as regards stuffing that a few recipes may not be unacceptable at this time

There is the old-fashioned sage stuffing liked by our grandmothers, and one that is hard to improve on

To a cupful of breadcrumbs pour over boiling water to moisten, season with butter, pepper, salt and dry sage leaves rubbed to a powder, using two teaspoonfuls of the sage to a cup of the crumbs. In stuffing a fowl care should be taken to give it room to swell, otherwise the stuffing will be soggy and indigestible

Turkey Stuffing (Swedish Style).—To two cups of stale bread crumbs add two-thirds of a cup of melted butter, a half cup of raisins cut fine, a half cup of walnut meats broken in pieces, salt, pepper and sage to taste.

Oyster Stuffing.—Mix together three cups of bread crumbs, a half cup of butter, melted; a pint of chopped oysters, salt, pepper and a few drops of onion juice.

Chestnut Dressing.—Shell and blanch three cups of chestnuts and cook in boiling salted water until soft; add a half cup of butter, a teaspoonful of salt, pepper to taste, a cup of crumbs and a fourth of a cup of cream. Mash the nuts, add the cream and the crumbs, which have been buttered by adding the melted butter to them; season and fill the turkey. More stuffing may be needed, as the cavity must be well filled

Nellie Maxwell.

Various Appeal.

"How did you like the big frosted cake I made?" inquired the young woman who cooks. "It depends," replied the cautious man, "on whether we are discussing it as food or statuary."

FANCIES OF FASHION

QUAINTNESS SHOWN IN MANY OF SEASON'S MODES.

Changeable Silks Most Appropriate for Trimming That Just Now Is Much Favored—Embroidery on Serge Dresses.

Ruches trim some of the newest silk frocks. The old fashioned double box-pleating, stitched in the middle and pinked on the edges, is used to edge sleeves, fichus and the edges of skirts.

The changeable silks are especially appropriate for this kind of trimming. They are quaint in themselves, and when made with fichus and the new self-trimming they hint of grandmother's day—only they are much lovelier!

A charming frock brought from Paris was of blue and green changeable silk, with a fichu of very fine tulle embroidered in blue coinspots. The yoke of the gown was of plain tulle. Sleeves were puffed and elbow length. The skirt opened at the side over ruffled underskirt.

Some of the new tailored serge dresses are showing broad bands of embroidery around the hips. Blue serge is trimmed with light blue; red with a brighter shade, and so on.

Lingerie frills of sheer batiste or net are used on many of the serge frocks.

A lovely white frock of sheer linen had heavy embroidery in beige colored yarn.

Many summer frocks have scarfs designed for them. These are draped around the shoulders in the form of little mantles. One in soft liberty satin was crossed at the back and the ends finished with deep silk fringe.

For those in mourning, scarfs of crepe lined with mousseline de soie are worn.

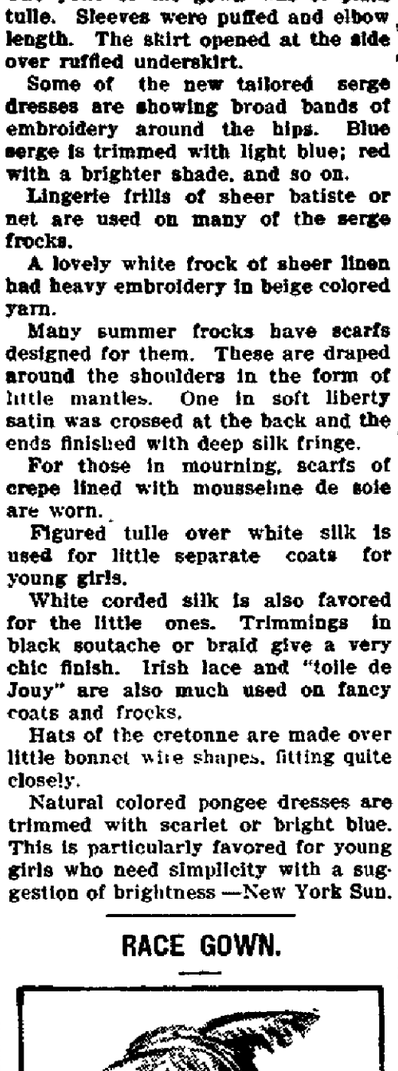
Figured tulle over white silk is used for little separate coats for young girls.

White corded silk is also favored for the little ones. Trimmings in black soutache or braid give a very chic finish. Irish lace and "toile de Jouy" are also much used on fancy coats and frocks.

Hats of the cretonne are made over little bonnet wire shapes, fitting quite closely.

Natural colored pongee dresses are trimmed with scarlet or bright blue. This is particularly favored for young girls who need simplicity with a suggestion of brightness.—New York Sun.

RACE GOWN.



Of white embroidered crepe de chine over pale rose Liberty satin with emerald-green velvet belt; chemisette and under sleeves of fine lace.

New Suede Millinery.

Perhaps the most popular form of millinery for travelling and outing purposes are those smart little round hats of suede.

They are simply trimmed with a strap and buckle, which are fashioned in colored suede in such colors as cinnamon, champagne, cerise, royal blue myrtle green, mole gray, saxe blue purple or other varying shades. Being very soft, they are ideal for motoring and can be worn with serge or cotton frocks for country use.

Several women have bought them to wear with white linen and serge frocks, adopting the idea of wearing suede shoes to match, and carrying an en tout cas of a like color finished with a suede-covered handle

Lace Handkerchiefs.

Imitation laces are usually not attractive, but some dainty ones that edge some handkerchiefs one of the shops is now showing are particularly good.

Princess laces are usually sold at prices that are prohibitive for most of us to enjoy possessing them, but these imitations are pretty enough for any woman to enjoy owning.

There is a tiny square of linen in the middle and a great wide edging of the princess or princess and imitation point lace combined.

Tod Mannow's Strategy

"Shucks!" said Tod Mannows, distinctly. Then he sat down on the lowest step and glumly surveyed the back yard. Never before had he noted how extremely large is a back yard 30 by 30 feet.

Thrusting his hands into his pockets he leaned back stiffly and continued to glower at the vast expanse. The reason for this sudden and extreme dislike for the rear part of the Mannows premises was the ultimatum issued that morning at breakfast by the elder Mannows.

"I'm tired of your fooling around getting into mischief all through vacation," his father had announced at the conclusion of an episode relating to two broken windows, a carelessly thrown baseball and an irate neighbor. "You are big and strong enough to devote your surplus energy to something useful. I have long wished to have a garden. Now, you may spade up the entire back yard so that next spring it will be in condition to plant. You can take as long as you like for its accomplishment, but you've got to work at it for awhile every day."

Tod was well acquainted with his father. Nothing short of a convulsion of nature and the complete wiping out of the Mannows premises would suffice to alter that decree. Therefore, he remarked again with desperate emphasis, "Shucks!" and then got to his feet slowly.

At an ear piercing whistle from the next yard he looked even more glum than before. The summons emanated from Fatty Dyckman and meant that the boys were gathering in the baseball lot.

"Can't!" Tod yelled to Fatty. "Gotta spade a garden!"

Fatty's head rose above the high board fence. "Aw, cumalong!" he said, unbelievingly. He looked serious, however, when Tod appeared at the basement door with a spade in his hand. "Gee!" he breathed. "That's fierce! Mebbe I'll help you," Fatty said nobly. "If I get time, that is," he added, more cautiously.

Tod did not cheer up at the handsome offier. He was a pessimist on this subject. Fatty's head disappeared, and Tod with great effort spaded up at least a teaspoonful of the soil. Manual labor was his acute idea of nothing at all to do.

Suddenly something in the dirt glittered and he pounced upon it breathlessly. It was nothing but a bit of glass. As he turned it over in his fingers an idea crept into his brain. A grin slowly transfigured his features. Then he dropped the piece of glass and the spade, ran to the rear door and slid into the house.

When he emerged he had his mother's embroidery scissors and a large back comb that belonged to his sister. It had been laid away in her top bureau drawer to await the return of the style demanding large back combs in one's hair. Thickly strewn over it were big, sparkly brilliants which glittered in the sunlight like the best product of the South African mines.

It did not take the boy long to pry them all loose. They made a handful.

Tod planted three of them very near the spot where he had spaded up the teaspoonful of soil. Then he distributed the others over the yard with the skill of a veteran salter of gold mines. Next he strolled to the fence. Fatty was just starting out with his catchers' glove.

"Yow-w-w!" Tod yelled. "I must 'a sprained by wrist!" He dangled it in the air. "Pa'll jump on me for not spadin', too!"

Fatty looked irresolute. "I s'pose I kin do a little before the boys git there," he said, heroically. He climbed the fence and took the spade.

"Right here I started," Tod directed, nursing his wrist. "Oh, gee!"

Fatty had shoveled two swadefuls of earth when he suddenly went down on his knees.

"What's the matter?" asked Tod from the back steps.

"Nothin'," Fatty replied, bending over something he held in his hand. He made another wild grab into the dirt. Then he turned around with an excited face.

"Say," he called. "You'd better go into the house and lie down. You can't tell about a sprain. Mebbe it's broke. You wanta be careful! Anyhow, I like to spade!"

"All right," said Tod reluctantly. "Don't work too hard," he cautioned Fatty as he disappeared through the back door.

Frequently during the morning he abandoned his hammock and wild west book and plate of fudge, which his sister thought she had hidden behind the top row of books, to look out upon Fatty Dyckman. That energetic young person was toiling furiously. Dirt streaked his perspiring face, and frequently he paused and rubbed his aching back. Now and then he made a triumphant grab into the spaded earth.

That evening the senior Mannows looked with surprise at the large amount of work accomplished in the garden. Nearly all of it was spaded.

"You must have worked like a nailer!" he said to his son. "I didn't mean that you should kill yourself by spading it all in one day!"

"Aw," said Tod indistinctly, as he slid out to join the boys. "That was dead easy!"

OTTUMWA WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ottumwa, Iowa.—"For years I was almost a constant sufferer from female trouble in all its dreadful forms; shooting pains all over my body, sick headache, spinal weakness, dizziness, depression, and everything that was horrid. I tried many doctors in different parts of the United States, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors. I feel it my duty to tell you these facts. My heart is full of gratitude to you for my cure."—Mrs. HARRIET E. WAMPLER, 524 S. Ransom Street, Ottumwa, Iowa.

Consider This Advice.

No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous medicine, made only from roots and herbs, has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, confidential, and always helpful.

What a Little Seed Did.

In the city of Hanover, in Germany, is an old neglected graveyard. Near the entrance is a tomb in which lie the remains of a lady who belonged to the old nobility, and who was buried there about the middle of the last century. The tomb is covered with massive blocks of stone. On one of these stones, besides the name of the lady and the date of her death, there are these words: "This grave, bought for all my time, must never be opened." But there are mightier forces than heavy stones and iron clamps. A little seed found lodging in the crevice between two of the stones. It took root and grew, until now there is an immense birch tree waving its graceful limos over the tomb. Its roots were through the grave, and the trunk lifted the great stone and broke the iron clamps; and the little seed had opened the grave, for its power was greater than the stone and the iron!

The Moon on Fish.

A recent report of the Scotch fishery board mentioned a curious habit which, according to fishermen, is associated with fish; the phases of the moon, it was asserted, have a very direct connection with the willingness of fish to be netted

To test this theory statistics were obtained of the catch of herrings from 1860 to 1900, with the result that the biggest catches were found to have coincided with the new moon and the smallest with full moon. The report suggested that a full moon enabled the nets to be seen much more easily than at times of new moon or the crescent phase or that the tides, which vary with the lunar phases, were possible factors in the matter.—Westminister Gazette.

The Daily Newspaper

All experienced advertisers acknowledge that familiarity by the public with the name and nature of their wares is one of the first essentials of success. To attain this familiarity the eye must be appealed to, and appealed to repeatedly. Sporadic appeals are as useless as a bucket of water thrown on an arid plain. What the eye sees the mind holds, but they must see it daily---and the daily newspaper offers the only stable opportunity for the direct aim at the vision. The story told in the daily newspaper, day after day, is impressed on the mind. This impression is a valuable factor.

The Charleroi Mail reaches practically every English reading household in Charler i, besides circulating up and down the river. At no time in the history of Charleroi has any Charleroi newspaper been so widely or eagerly read than is the Mail at the present time.

Over 7,000 persons read the Charleroi Mail every day

Can an advertiser by any other means reach the eyes and ears of so many people in a single day?

DON'T WAIT SO LONG

One of the most surprising things in the world to druggists is that so many people endure unnecessary suffering and trouble.

Every day they hear people say, "I have been feeling so weak and miserable for the last few months that I finally decided to come and ask you what to do for it."

For instance, Miss Zulah Teagarden, of Connellsville, Pa., says in a letter: "For years I had been in bad health owing to run-down system and general weakness. I had no appetite, was tired out, and had no strength.

"Hearing so much about Vinol I decided to try it, and I find it the greatest of all remedies. It has built up my strength, restored my appetite, and made me as well as ever. I might just as well have had this benefit years ago if I had taken Vinol then."

Now if you are weak and in poor health, don't wait another day, but let Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy without oil, make you strong. We guarantee it—you get your money back if not satisfied. Piper Bros. Druggists, Charleroi, Pa.

MRS. IRONS IS HONORED ON HER 78TH BIRTHDAY

Coming as a surprise Mrs. Elizabeth Irons, mother of John Irons of near Gibsonton, was honored by 21 of her near friends Thursday at the home of her son. The affair was arranged on the occasion of her 78th birthday. Mrs Irons lives in a house near that of her son and when the guests gathered she was summoned by Rev J. T. Hackett of Charleroi. Upon entering the doors of her son's home she discovered the conspiracy and at once became the center of the merry circle. Dinner was served and as a tribute a fine large cake occupied a conspicuous place on the table. On it 78 candles burned.

TEAMS ARE IMPROVING

Central League Gets a Start on Second Week of the Season

CHARLEROI GOING WELL

With one week and more gone of the Central Basketball league season. the six teams composing the circuit are getting down to facts. Last week it was largely amatter of fancy which teams constituted the league leaders but this week will show better the real strength of the various fives. That Charleroi will be picked among the favorites is evidenced by their superior work of the week. Charleroi will not play until Friday night when the team faces the Southside five. This will give an opportunity for practice, the lack of which has resulted in nearly every defeat sustained by the locals thus far.

Probably the best team on the floor at the present time in the Central league is the Johnstown five. Uniontown with the veteran Andy Sears at the helm claims much but Fogarty's five from Johnstown shows form that has not yet been attanied by the Fayette county passers. For individual playing Charleroi has shown possibly greater form than any other team unless it is Johnstown.

Connellsville looks good to the local basketball fans. Southside and Washington are yet to be heard from but as they seem to have good players, there is no reason why they shouldn't stand the pace as well as the rest of the teams in the league.

All told it looks as though this year's basketball is going to be of a better class than last year's in the Central league. Some new stars have been added and the teams are better balanced.

Individual scoring averages for the first week show that Capt. Jack Adams, of the Charleroi team leads in the number of points scored. Fogarty of Johnstown, is the second man. Then in order somes Kummer of Connellsville. Curlett, of Southside, Smith of Uniontown, Sears of Uniontown, Wolhfarth of Johnstown, Newman of Johnstown, and Dolin, of Charleroi. The leading foul shooters in order are: Curlett, Kummer, Fogarty, Sears and Adams. Johnstown leads in team scoring as the following table shows:

Team Scoring.

IMPORTANT DEAL FOR INDUSTRIAL FUTURE OF BOROUGH CONSUMMATED

Strip of Eight Street Between Railroad and River Sold to Macbeth-Evans Company

TO BUILD AN ADDITION

Plant to be Increased--Borough Secures Option of Tenth Street Ground for Street to the River

One of the most important deals for Charleroi's industrial outlook that has been put through for some time, was finally consummated Tuesday night when council finally passed the ordinance selling to the Macbeth-Evans Glass company the strip of Eighth street leading from the railroad to the river. In part payment for the street the glass company allows the borough an option on a strip of ground at Tenth street for a street to the river and it is agreed that if the borough purchases this ground the price shall not exceed that paid by the Macbeth-Evans people for Eighth street.

For more than a year the Macbeth-Evans company has been negotiating for the purchase of the Eighth street strip and the deal has been nearly consummated at different times only to be held up by some technicality. Lately it was the matter of electric wires of the West Penn Electric company strung over Eighth street, which the glass company wanted moved that held up the deal. This was adjusted between the electric company and Macbeth-Evans people satisfactorily and that completed the last detail

C. R. Peregrine, business superintendent, appeared before council Tuesday night and stating that everything had been arranged as to the technical details for the purchase. A price had been previously agreed upon and council had prepared matters so that it required only the passage of the ordinance to acknowledge the consumation of the deal.

The Macbeth-Evans Glass company will use the strip of ground, it is understood for extending their plant. They have already built a warehouse on a strip on the southern side of Eighth street.

Possibly never has the Macbeth-Evans been so crowded with orders. Never was the local plant working at so great a rate. It is proposed later on to erect an additional plant at the northern end of the present plant for the manufacture of novelty ware, it is stated This matter will probably be decided upon now that the Eight street deal has been put through.

UNION THANKSGIVING SERVICES TO BE HELD

Churches to Join in Holding Annual Meeting at Christ LutheranChurch--Three Addresses to be Made

Preparations are being made for the annual union Thanksgiving service to be held at Christ Lutheran church Thanksgiving evening. Rev. Chalmers E. Frontz the pastor of the church is arranging the program. Three addresses will be given.

The speakers for the services will be Rev. J. T. Hackett, of the First Presbyterian church, Rev. F. A. Richards, of the Methodist Episcopal church and Rev. John R. Burson the new pastor of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church.

Thanksgiving proclamations of President Taft and Governor Tener will be read. Prof I. T. Daniel has been asked to form and conduct a union choir for the rendition of special Thanksgiving music.

It is the plan of the ministers to have a union Thanksgiving service yearly and by a system they have, it would have been the turn of the minister of the Christian church to preach the sermon this year. Owing to Rev. V. G. Hostetter resigning his charge and leaving the first of September, it was deemed best to substitute three ten minute addresses.

NORTH CHARLEROI ORDINANCE PASSED

New Statute Goes Through and Lincoln Avenue Will Be Widened

COUNSEL IS RETAINED

When the North Charleroi council met in session on Monday evening, trouble was threatened over an ordinance which had been prepared looking to the widening of Lincoln avenue Announcement had been made of the purpose of the meeting some days before and at that time the circulation of a petition began condemning the idea of widening the street. When council took up the ordinance there were a number of citizens ready to voice their protests. An amendment was made to the ordinance which eliminated the objections and it pased unanimously. The widening of the street will be for the sole purpose of making room for the locating of poles of the various companies who hold borough franchises, and it will be incidental to the completing of the contract of railway companys and others and will secure for the borough the payment promised by the Pittsburg railway company for paving.

At the same meeting council retained D. M. McCloskey, Esq., to prosecute the case against the Pennsylvania Railroad to have them provide a street from Fourth street to the borough line. It is claimed the railroad now occupies a part of the borough street.

School Board to Meet for Clearing up Business Records

REPORTS OF SCHOOLS

Busines of a general nature will be taken up by the school board at a special meeting called for tonight. Among the business probably will be the reading of the monthly report of Superintendent James G. Peniz. It is the desire of the school board to finish up all business before the present directors go out of office.

LOCAL NEW STATION ATTRACTS ATTENTION ALONG THE VALLEY

While Charleroi is celebrating the opening of the new railroad station here, other towns are bewailing their ill fortune in not being similarly favored by the Pennsylvania railroad. Monongahela complains that the present station there has been in use for a ong period and that the traffic is great, but that the antiquated building is made to answer the needs.

LECTURE ON EUROPE AT SCHOOL HALL

For the benefit of school interests an entertainment will be held at School Hall next Monday night, November 27. It will be a stereopticon travel lecture by David Morrison of Pittsburg. The subject will be "Travel in Europe," and the countries covered will be Great Britain, France, Italy and Switzerland Mr. Morrison has some beautiful stereopticon slides illustrating the principal points of interest in these countries, and the lecture is most instructive and entertaining. A program of entertainment in connection with the lecture will also be arranged.

The Ladies League of the Methodist church are holding a silver social at the residence of Mrs. F. W. Cunningham of Crest avenue this afternoon.

DISPLAY HOLIDAY BARGAINS

Many Christmas Shoppers Begin Their Buying Early

LITTLE OVER A MONTH

Together with the chilly wintry weather of the last few days has come the suggestion of the rapidly approaching holiday period.

But a few days intervene between now and Thanksgiving and Christmas will fololw that holiday in less than a month. In fact Thanksgiving will be nearer Christmas in point of days this year than it has been for years and will be again for an age.

With the thought of the near approach of holiday time comes another consideration, that of the holiday buying. Already the stores are receiving and putting on display their Christmas offerings. Soon the shopping will begin with a rush.

Realizing the desirability of early shopping some have aready begun making their Christmas purchases. To get the Christmas shopping done early is the desire of every storekeeper and it is not from a selfish reason that they wish it, but because they realize the better service their clerks can give now with less strain upon themselves than at a later time in the year. Those who have begun their Christmas shopping are grasping opportunity by the forelock too, for they reason that better values can be secured now without distracting the nerve-racking tour through the crowded stores a week or so before Christmas.

YOUNG NEWSPAPER MAN MAKING GOOD

Western Publisher Pays Beallsville Lad a Deserved Compliment

The Western Publisher of Nov. 15th, date has the following to say concerning Don P. Hawkins, a newspaper man of Beallsville, who is the Beallsville correspondent of the Mail:

"One of Pennsylvania's rising young newspaper men, is Don P. Hawkins of Beallsville, Pa., who, although but eighteen years of age is local editor of The Bentleyville Times. Mr. Hawkins has been doing newspaper work for the past five years. He was made editor of the Bentleyville Times in October 1910; for four years before he had worked for the Monongahela Times Publishing company. He has held the office of superintendent of the street lighting department since he was fourteen years of age. Mr. Hawkins is a special representative of the Tri-State News Bureau, one of the big news organizations of the state."

Passing of Old Station

No Sentiment is Connected With the Disintegration of Old Wooden Structure

Without the least bit of sentiment of the kind pictured in the poem, "Woodman, Spare That Tree," but instead with a haste and a sense of complacency in duty well done, railroad men are busily engaged in tearing down the old Charleroi passenger station. The station went out of use forever as a waiting place for trains on Monday when the handsome and commodious new station was put into use. Lumber taken from the old station will be used in rough work along the railroad

BINGVILLE DANCE IS ENJOYED

Elks and Their Friends Enjoys Evening in Merrymaking

"BARN" IS DECORATED

In point of pleasure, uniqueness, and general appreciation the Bingville barn dance and euchre given by the entertainment committee at the Elks Home Tuesday night was perhaps the most successful social event yet attempted in the series that is given each year About 80 couples were in attendance and all found entertainment in a manner that was highly enjoyable

It was a "tackie" party pure and simple The invitations announced that the affair was a "Bingville barn dance, to be held at the Elks' barn at the cross roads of Fallowfield and Third, in Charleroi." The men folks were bidden to come in Bingville attire and to bring their "gals" trigged out in the same way And they did—that is the most of the hundred and sixty persons, young and old, who found pleasure in the unique form of merrymaking provided.

Nearly everybody who went dressed 'tackie," and there were some unique and original costumes. Old gowns that belonged to their grandmothers and their great-grandmothers

Council Takes Up Lincoln Avenue Question for Action

COMMUNICATION IS READ

State Highway Commissioner Says Another Ordinance is Necessary

Council did not take up the light question officially at their adjourned session on Tuesday night, but deferred the matter until next Wednesday when they will meet. Representatives of the West Penn Electric company and the Welshbach Gas Lighting company were present but when they were told the matter would be deferred until that time, they went home. Meanwhile the gas concern will maintain their two lights on two local streets as experiments. Council is of the opinion that the price asked by the West Penn Electric company for street lighting is too high and will not let the contract, it is stated until a perfect understanding is reached.

The Lincoln avenue grade ordinance was finally passed and placed in the hands of Burgess George W. Risbeck for his signature. A communication was received from State Highway Commissioner E. M. Bigelow that another ordinance would have to be passed in the nature of a petition to the State for State aid in paving Lincoln avenue, this being a formality required. This advice will be acted upon at once.

The Charleroi Telephone company notified council that it accepted the ordinance granting it right to lay conduits underground and to conduct an underground service in the borough.

Borough Engineer Paul G. Elder was authorized to procure two carloads of stone with which to repair streets.

President J. K. Hein was in the chair and members present were: C. O. Frye, Dr. A. O. Davis, Oscar C. Linn and W. H. Calvert.

Looks Over Postoffice

Postoffice inspector H. H. Williams of Greensburg is at the Charleroi postoffice today looking over the books. It is one of his regular visits. Inspector Williams has not been here since the time of the opening of the postal savings institution September 18. The postal savings is in good condition and doing a good business.

MANY POSTAL BANKS IN THIS VICINITY

Practically every town of any pretensions at all along the Monongahela valley will have a postal savings bank when on Thursday the Fayette City postoffice will become a depository. Fayette City is one of the last of the group of towns surrounding Charleroi to be designated as a postal savings station. Monessen was the first, then Monongahela Charleroi and California. The government has been establishing postal savings agencies with great rapidity the last few months. Belle Vernon's bank opened Tuesday.

REPORTS ARE HEARD BY THE W. C. T. U.

The W. C T. U. held a meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. T. Hackett on Fifth street. Matters of importance were taken up. A report was given by Mrs. J. K. Mitchell of the recent State W. C. T. U. convention at Warren. Arrangements were made for forming a young people's society for both sexes to be an auxilliary of the W. C. T. U. A meeting will be held next Tuesday evening for the purpose of organizing at the home of Mrs. Emma Dawson, the W. C. T. U. president.

SOLVING THE PROBLEM

While the question of the assimilation of the foreign element in our midst is occupying the minds of theorists, Pennsylvania, the State most affected, perhaps, is steadily solving the problem. This she is doing in various ways, but the most effective method is through the public schools Compared with the span of a lifetime the process may appear slow, but in the history of the progress of civilization the process of intellectual advancement was never more rapid.

This leavening process is most apparent when one scans the rolls of the public schools There will be found Slavic, Italian, Russian, Finnish and other foreign names, and these names will remain on the rolls until the child is 14 years old. The school law makes this attendance compulsory and the requirement is being enforced pretty generally. There is scarcely a community in the industrial section of this State that does not have a large element of foreign born children on its school enrollment and there are some mining communities in Washington county where the school enrollment contains scarcely an English speaking name

The foreign born child who is turned loose into the industrial field at 14 years of age after eight years' training in the public schools will in all probability make a whole lot better American citizen than the adult who comes to our schoreslater in life Of course there are exceptions, but the rule is general and will hold our. The most of the friction and disorder that arises in connection with the foreign element in our midst is due to a lack of proper governing facilities and regulation on our own part. We expect an alien class of people who are inorant alike of language and customs to adopt and conform to American ways without any attempt on our part to train them in our direction The result is that liberty and license become confounded and complications follow. This will follow so long as the raw material continues to pour in . It is the new crop that makes the trouble. Any one who looks beyond this will be convinced that our State is dealing with the problem most expeditiously in a social way What is most needed now is intelligent and forcible local direction in every community to look after the law and order part. The lack of this is our own fault—not that of the foreigners.

UP TO THE CITIZENS.

As there are several new councilmen to be inducted into office at the organization of the board next month it is well for these to take some note of the duties that confront them This office is entirely voluntary and pays no compensation, yet the councilmen constitutes a board of business managers who must collect and expend an average, perhaps of $40,000 a year for ordinary public expenses. This sum constitutes about the fixed charges that council must provide for by taxation before they can think of any improvements

As Charleroi must advance, it is necesary for council to adopt a progressive and constructive policy which at the same time must not be unduly burdensome to the taxpayers nor a detriment to the interests of the town Council can issue a certain amount in bonds or the electors can vote a still larger issue whereby paving and other improvements can be done in a lump, or council can levy a higher tax to make a certain amount of improvements yearly. It is up to the citizens and taxpayers to express their sentiments to the council, who will no doubt be glad to have a popular constructive policy indicated by the citizens

A little four-year-old lad in one of the homes in the hill district was being taught to say his prayers every night by his mother. He had already mastered in a way the Lord's Prayer, when his mother sought to teach him some other devotions. The first time she attempted to vary in this the little fellow interposed a kick

"Oh, mamma," he exclaimed, "I don't like that prayer at all. I like the one that has something to eat in it."

He referred to the "daily bread" passage in the Lord's Prayer.

Over at the P. & L. E. station at Monessen the other day, while quite a crowd of passengers were waiting for a train considerable commotion was caused by one of the number announcing that he had dropped a five-dollar gold piece He searched everywhere on the floor, but could not locate it.. Others joined in the search which soon became general Finally, when it began to be painfully apparent that some were thinking the money had been found and kept by some one present, the suggestion was made to the loser.

"Look about your clothes; maybe the money lodged somewhere about you."

The loser felt himself all over and finally with much the same air as a magician, only he looked foolish instead of triumphant, drew the missing coin from the cuff of his trousers which happened to be of the so-called outing variety.

Burden of Hours.

The hours drift on as the dawn or the scent of the rain
They come as the wind—for a little they are and are gone,
And the Seeker may pause in his Search, to his pleasure or pain,
But the hours go on

The hours bear joy in their arms which is akin unto fire
While fire which is light to the Seeker and warmth to his heart,
And it catches at this at it goes, with a Seeker's desire
But he misses a part.

The hours fare into the dark and the Seeker in turn
The load in the arms of the hours departs and is dumb—
Yet who knows but it waits otherwise, as a hearte fire to burn
When the Seeker shall come

Names in Electricity.

Electricity is the one branch of science that honors the great names in its fundamental terminology. Two years ago a tablet was unveiled at Ampere, N J, in honor of Andre Marie Ampere, the French physicist who first measured the current and for whom the unit is named. The ohm bears the name of George S. Ohm, a German man of science who discovered the law on which the unit of electrical resistance is based. The volt is named for the Italian Volta, the greatest electrical authority of the eighteenth century, who was the first man to construct a rude electric battery A farad, the unit of electrical capacity, is named in honor of the English physicist, Faraday, the coulomb, the unit of quantity, for the French physicist Coulomb, and the watt, the unit of power, for James Watt, the Scotch inventor who improved the steam engine.

A German Poser.

That the German authorities can so far unbend as to propound conundrums is only another proof of how little we know our Teutonic relations In the census papers now being distributed, however, they ask "If you do not know the date of your birth, how many years old are you?" Which is more humorous and at least as intelligible as "Why is a mouse when it spins?" —London Black and White.

were fished out by the "weemen" folks, while the men dug up old silk hats, long tailed coats and other "duds" that used to be their fathers' other clothes back in the sixties and seventies. There were Reubens and Jaspers galore, as well as the bucohc swains of the olden and backwoods type In feminine attire there were Puritan maids, Priscillas, Sis Hopkins, grandmothers and matrons with the settled air of conviction that their markets were made and the men folk need not look their way A touch of pathos was added by some of the old finery on display that had been carefully treasured by loved ones now in the great beyond, and was reminiscent of the days when hearts beat warm and true to love and duty and when family ties and neighborly bonds were not so lightly regarded as in these days of strenuous distraction.

The Elks' barn required no vivid stretch of imagination to hark back to the old days of huskin'bees and apple cuts. Corn fodder and bales of hay surrounded the walls and filled the nooks and corners of the hall. Hidden in the corn shocks were numerous pumpkin jack-o-lanters, with electric light connections A huge harvest moon overlooked the dancing floor of the barn and the lights were switched off ever and anon, which showed the jack-o-lanters and moon effects to good advantage. Those who did not care to dance to the merry music of 'Squire Jenkins' fiddlers, could play euchre in the library, and many Bingville matrons and partners found diversion in this manner For favors the women winners were awarded pumpkin pies, while the men who won drew a sack of apples.

For refreshments a barrel of sweet new cider was on tap, while huge trays of gingerbread and doughnuts with baskets of apples were conveniently placed. The whole affair was a most successful and enjoyable event, and the committee who arranged and executed the event—'Squire Gideon Jenkins, Hezekiah Brown, Ebenezer Todd, Deacon Hormell and Rufus Fergus are receiving congratulations

ONE MILLION DOLLARS FOR A GOOD STOMACH

This Offer Should Be a Warning to Every Man and Woman

The newspapers and medical journals recently have had much to say relative to a famous millionaire's offer of a million dollars for a new stomach

This great multi-millionaire was too busy to worry about the condition of his stomach He allowed his dyspepsia to run from bad to worse until in the end it became incurable.

His misfortune serves as a warning to others

Every one who suffers with dyspepsia for a few years will give everything he owns for a new stomach

Dyspepsia is commonly caused by an abnormal state of the gastric juices, or by lack of tone in the walls of the stomach. The result is that the stomach loses its power to digest food.

We are now able to supply certain missing elements—to help to restore to the gastric juices their digestive power and to aid in making the stomach strong and well.

We know that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are a most dependable remedy for disordered stomachs, indigestion, and dyspepsia.

We want you to try them and will return your money if you are not more than satisfied with the result

Three sizes 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store Carroll's Drug Store, 623 Fallowfield avenue, Charleroi.

Roman Coins Found in England.

The process of cleaning the coins found a few weeks ago in a Roman vase in a field upon a farm at Edwinstowe, Nottinghamshire, England, shows that they comprise 369 denarii, dating from 69 to 192 A. Agricultural Education.

The young farmer who cuts out agricultural education from his life program will see his mistake by and by. Who ever met a graduate of a good farm college who wishes he had kept at work instead of taking a course of special study and training?

Found in the Census Bulletins.

A rather startling feature of one of the recent census bulletins is that concerning mortality with reference to women. Dr. Cressy L. Wilbur, chief statistician of vital statistics, declares that out of all the deaths reported for the age periods from 10 to 24 and 35 to 44 years 29 3 per cent. of them are due to tuberculosis of the lungs. Of the deaths among women workers between the ages of 35 and 84 years heart disease claims an average of 11 19 per cent. The bulletin also shows that between the ages of 35 and 64 6.8 per cent. of the deaths among women is due to cancer, and it also states that of the total number of deaths among women of specified occupation by far the largest per cent. is due to consumption.

Render Unto Caesar—

The agent of a recently completed large New York apartment house had a card placed in all the passenger elevators bearing this notice "Gentlemen will remove their hats when there are ladies in the car" The cards were taken down after a few days, but there seems to be a difference of opinion—as—to—the reason. The agent says that his aim has been accomplished, while some of the tenants said that he was willing to let the matter of the hats take care of itself after he had read a letter signed by a number of tenants protesting against his "mentorship." "If you want us to take off our hats to anybody let the order come from the janitor," they wrote "He's the janitor, but you are only the agent"

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous For Charleroi People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually, undermined. Backache headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, and Bright's disease, follow as the kidneys get worse. Don't neglect your kidneys. Help the kidneys with the reliable and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in Charleroi.

Mrs Robert Coulter, 207 Prospect avenue, Charleroi, Pa., says: "Some years ago my son contracted the measles and on recovering, I noticed that his kidneys were weak. He had no control over the kidney secretions and this was especially annoying at night. I had often seen Doan's Kidney Pills highly advertised in the local papers and was finally induced to procure a supply at Piper Bros.' Drug Store. I had my son use them according to directions, and before long he was greatly benefitted. He is still using Doan's Kidney Pills, and I am certain that a complete cure will soon be effected.

THE THANKSGIVING TURKEY.

In choosing a turkey, as any other poultry it should be plump have smooth legs and the cartilage at the end of the breast bone should be pliable Cock turkeys are usually considered better eating than hen turkeys, unless the latter are young and plump.

A turkey weighing nine pounds should roast from two and a half to three hours There are such differences in taste as regards stuffing that a few recipes may not be unacceptable at this time

There is the old-fashioned sage stuffing liked by our grandmothers, and one that is hard to improve on

To a cupful of breadcrumbs pour over boiling water to moisten, season with butter. pepper, salt and dry sage leaves rubbed to a powder, using two teaspoonfuls of the sage to a cup of the crumbs In stuffing a fowl care should be taken to give it room to swell, otherwise the stuffing will be soggy and indigestible.

Turkey Stuffing (Swedish Style).—To two cups of stale bread crumbs add two-thirds of a cup of melted butter, a half cup of raisins cut fine, a half cup of walnut meats broken in pieces, salt, pepper and sage to taste.

Oyster Stuffing.—Mix together three cups of bread crumbs, a half cup of butter, melted; a pint of chopped oysters, salt, pepper and a few drops of onion juice.

Chestnut Dressing.—Shell and blanch three cups of chestnuts and cook in boiling salted water until soft; add a half cup of butter, a teaspoonful of salt, pepper to taste, a cup of crumbs and a fourth of a cup of cream. Mash the nuts. add the cream and the crumbs, which have been buttered by adding the melted butter to them; season and fill the turkey. More stuffing may be needed, as the cavity must be well filled

Various Appeal.

"How did you like the big frosted cake I made?" inquired the young woman who cooks. "It depends," replied the cautious man, "on whether we are discussing it as food or statuary."

FANCIES OF FASHION

QUAINTNESS SHOWN IN MANY OF SEASON'S MODES.

Changeable Silks Most Appropriate for Trimming That Just Now Is Much Favored—Embroidery on Serge Dresses.

Ruches trim some of the newest silk frocks. The old fashioned double box-pleating, stitched in the middle and pinked on the edges, is used to edge sleeves, fichus and the edges of skirts.

The changeable silks are especially appropriate for this kind of trimming. They are quaint in themselves, and when made with fichus and the new self-trimming they hint of grandmother's day—only they are much lovelier!

A charming frock brought from Paris was of blue and green changeable silk, with a fichu of very fine tulle embroidered in blue comspots. The yoke of the gown was of plain tulle. Sleeves were puffed and elbow length. The skirt opened at the side over ruffled underskirt.

Some of the new tailored serge dresses are showing broad bands of embroidery around the hips Blue serge is trimmed with light blue; red with a brighter shade, and so on.

Lingerie frills of sheer batiste or net are used on many of the serge frocks.

A lovely white frock of sheer linen had heavy embroidery in beige colored yarn

Many summer frocks have scarfs designed for them These are draped around the shoulders in the form of little mantles. One in soft liberty satin was crossed at the back and the ends finished with deep silk fringe.

For those in mourning, scarfs of crepe lined with mousseline de soie are worn.

Figured tulle over white silk is used for little separate coats for young girls

White corded silk is also favored for the little ones. Trimmings in black soutache or braid give a very chic finish. Irish lace and "toile de Jouy" are also much used on fancy coats and frocks

Hats of the cretonne are made over little bonnet wire shapes, fitting quite closely

Natural colored pongee dresses are trimmed with scarlet or bright blue. This is particularly favored for young girls who need simplicity with a suggestion of brightness.—New York Sun.

RACE GOWN.

Of white embroidered crepe de chine over pale rose Liberty satin with emerald-green velvet belt; chemisette and under sleeves of fine lace.

New Suede Millinery.

Perhaps the most popular form of millinery for travelling and outing purposes are those smart little round hats of suede

They are simply trimmed with a strap and buckle, which are fashioned in colored suede in such colors as cinnamon, champagne, cerise, royal blue myrtle green, mole gray, saxe blue purple or other varying shades Being very soft, they are ideal for motoring and can be worn with serge or cotton frocks for country use.

Several women have bought them to wear with white linen and serge frocks, adopting the idea of wearing suede shoes to match, and carrying an en tout cas of a like color finished with a suede-covered handle.

Lace Handkerchiefs.

Imitation laces are usually not attractive, but some dainty ones that edge some handkerchiefs one of the shops is now showing are particularly good.

Princess laces are usually sold at prices that are prohibitive for most of us to enjoy possessing them, but these imitations are pretty enough for any woman to enjoy owning

There is a tiny square of linen in the middle and a great wide edging of the princess or princess and imitation point lace combined.

Tod Mannow's Strategy

"Shucks!" said Tod Mannows, distinctly. Then he sat down on the lowest step and glumly surveyed the back yard. Never before had he noted how extremely large is a back yard 30 by 30 feet.

Thrusting his hands into his pockets he leaned back stiffly and continued to glower at the vast expanse. The reason for this sudden and extreme dislike for the rear part of the Mannows premises was the ultimatum issued that morning at breakfast by the elder Mannows.

"I'm tired of your fooling around getting into mischief all through vacation," his father had announced at the conclusion of an episode relating to two broken windows, a carelessly thrown baseball and an irate neighbor.—"You are big and strong enough to devote your surplus energy to something useful I have long wished to have a garden Now, you may spade up the entire back yard so that next spring it will be in condition to plant You can take as long as you like for its accomplishment, but you've got to work at it for awhile every day."

Tod was well acquainted with his father Nothing short of a convulsion of nature and the complete wiping out of the Mannows premises would suffice to alter that decree. Therefore, he remarked again with desperate emphasis, "Shucks!" and then got to his feet slowly.

At an ear piercing whistle from the next yard he looked even more glum than before. The summons emanated from Fatty Dyckman and meant that the boys were gathering in the baseball lot.

"Can't!" Tod yelled to Fatty. "Gotta spade a garden!"

Fatty's head rose above the high board fence. "Aw, cumalong!" he said, unbelievingly. He looked serious, however, when Tod appeared at the basement door with a spade in his hand. "Gee!" he breathed. "That's fierce! Mebbe I'll help you," Fatty said nobly. "If I get time, that is," he added, more cautiously.

Tod did not cheer up at the handsome offier. He was a pessimist on this subject. Fatty's head disappeared, and Tod with great effort spaded up at least a teaspoonful of the soil. Manual labor was his acute idea of nothing at all to do

Suddenly something in the dirt glittered and he pounced upon it breathlessly It was nothing but a bit of glass. As he turned it over in his fingers an idea crept into his brain. A grin slowly transfigured his features. Then he dropped the piece of glass and the spade, ran to the rear door and slid into the house.

When he emerged he had his mother's embroidery scissors and a large back comb that belonged to his sister. It had been laid away in her top bureau drawer to await the return of the style demanding large back combs in one's hair. Thickly strewn over it were big, sparkly brilliants which glittered in the sunlight like the best product of the South African mines.

It did not take the boy long to pry them all loose. They made a handful.

Tod planted three of them very near the spot where he had spaded up the teaspoonful of soil. Then he distributed the others over the yard with the skill of a veteran salter of gold mines Next he strolled to the fence. Fatty was just starting out with his catchers' glove.

"Yow-w-w!" Tod yelled. "I must 'a sprained by wrist!" He dangled it in the air. "Pa'll jump on me for not spadin', too!"

Fatty looked irresolute. "I s'pose I kin do a little before the boys git there," he said, heroically. He climbed the fence and took the spade.

"Right here I started," Tod directed, nursing his wrist. "Oh, gee!"

Fatty had shoveled two swadefuls of earth when he suddenly went down on his knees.

"What's the matter?" asked Tod from the back steps

"Nothin'," Fatty replied, bending over something he held in his hand. He made another wild grab into the dirt. Then he turned around with an excited face.

"Say," he called. "You'd better go into the house and lie down. You can't tell about a sprain. Mebbe it's broke. You wanta be careful! Anyhow, I like to spade!"

"All right," said Tod reluctantly. "Don't work too hard," he cautioned Fatty as he disappeared through the back door.

Frequently during the morning he abandoned his hammock and wild west book and plate of fudge, which his sister thought she had hidden behind the top row of books, to look out upon Fatty Dyckman. That energetic young person was toiling furiously Dirt streaked his perspiring face, and frequently he paused and rubbed his aching back. Now and then he made a triumphant grab into the spaded earth.

That evening the senior Mannows looked with surprise at the large amount of work accomplished in the garden. Nearly all of it was spaded.

"You must have worked like a nailer!" he said to his son. "I didn't mean that you should kill yourself by spading it all in one day!"

"Aw," said Tod indistinctly, as he slid out to join the boys. "That was dead easy!"

OTTUMWA WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ottumwa, Iowa.—"For years I was almost a constant sufferer from female trouble in all its dreadful forms; shooting pains all over my body, sick headache, spinal weakness, dizziness, depression, and everything that was horrid. I tried many doctors in different parts of the United States, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors. I feel it my duty to tell you these facts. My heart is full of gratitude to you for my cure."—Mrs. HARRIET E. WAMPLER, 524 S. Ransom Street, Ottumwa, Iowa.

Consider This Advice.

No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous medicine, made only from roots and herbs, has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, confidential, and always helpful.

What a Little Seed Did.

In the city of Hanover, in Germany, is an old neglected graveyard Near the entrance is a tomb in which lie the remains of a lady who belonged to the old nobility, and who was buried there about the middle of the last century The tomb is covered with massive blocks of stone. On one of these stones, besides the name of the lady and the date of her death, there are these words: "This grave, bought for all my time, must never be opened." But there are mightier forces than heavy stones and iron clamps. A little seed found lodging in the crevice between two of the stones. It took root and grew, until now there is an immense birch tree waving its graceful limbs over the tomb Its roots were through the grave, and the trunk lifted the great stone and broke the iron clamps; and the little seed had opened the grave, for its power was greater than the stone and the iron!

The Moon on Fish.

A recent report of the Scotch fishery board mentioned a curious habit which, according to fishermen, is associated with fish; the phases of the moon, it was asserted, have a very direct connection with the willingness of fish to be netted.

To test this theory statistics were obtained of the catch of herrings from 1860 to 1900, with the result that the biggest catches were found to have coincided with the new moon and the smallest with full moon. The report suggested that a full moon enabled the nets to be seen much more easily than at times of new moon or the crescent phase or that the tides, which vary with the lunar phases, were possible factors in the matter.—Westminister Gazette

The Daily Newspaper

All experienced advertisers acknowledge that familiarity by the public with the name and nature of their wares is one of the first essentials of success. To attain this familiarity the eye must be appealed to, and appealed to repeatedly. Sporadic appeals are as useless as a bucket of water thrown on an arid plain. What the eye sees the mind holds, but they must see it daily---and the daily newspaper offers the only stable opportunity for the direct aim at the vision. The story told in the daily newspaper, day after day, is impressed on the mind. This impression is a valuable factor.

The Charleroi Mail reaches practically every English reading household in Charler i, besides circulating up and down the river. At no time in the history of Charleroi has any Charleroi newspaper been so widely or eagerly read than is the Mail at the present time.

Over 7,000 persons read the Charleroi Mail every day

Can an advertiser by any other means reach the eyes and ears of so many people in a single day?

What would the bill distributor charge you for distributing 8,000 bill a day? Compare the cost of the bills and the distribution with the cost of an advertisement in the Mail.

TEAMS ARE IMPROVING

Central League Gets a Start on Second Week of the Season

CHARLEROI GOING WELL

With one week and more gone of the Central Basketball league season, the six teams composing the circuit are getting down to facts. Last week it was largely amatter of fancy which teams constituted the league leaders but this week will show better the real strength of the various fives. That Charleroi will be picked among the favorites is evidenced by their superior work of the week. Charleroi will not play until Friday night when the team faces the Southside five. This will give an opportunity for practice, the lack of which has resulted in nearly every defeat sustained by the locals thus far.

Probably the best team on the floor at the present time in the Central league is the Johnstown five. Uniontown with the veteran Andy Sears at the helm claims much but Fogarty's five from Johnstown shows form that has not yet been attained by the Fayette county passers For individual playing Charleroi has shown possibly greater form than any other team unless it is Johnstown.

Connellsville looks good to the local basketball fans Southside and Washington are yet to be heard from but as they seem to have good players, there is no reason why they shouldn't stand the pace as well as the rest of the teams in the league.

All told it looks as though this year's basketball is going to be of a better class than last year's in the Central league. Some new stars have been added and the teams are better balanced.

Individual scoring averages for the first week show that Capt. Jack Adams, of the Charleroi team leads in the number of points scored. Fogarty of Johnstown, is the second man. Then in order somes Kummer of Connellsville. Curlett, of Southside. Smith of Uniontown, Sears of Uniontown, Wolhfarth of Johnstown. Newman of Johnstown, and Dolin, of Charleroi. The leading foul shooters in order are: Curlett, Kummer, Fogarty, Sears and Adams. Johnstown leads in team scoring as the following table shows:

DON'T WAIT SO LONG

One of the most surprising things in the world to druggists is that so many people endure unnecessary suffering and trouble.

Every day they hear people say, "I have been feeling so weak and miserable for the last few months that I finally decided to come and ask you what to do for it."

For instance. Miss Zulah Teagarden, of Connellsville, Pa, says in a letter: "For years I had been in bad health owing to run-down system and general weakness. I had no appetite, was tired out, and had no strength.

"Hearing so much about Vinol I decided to try it, and I find it the greatest of all remedies. It has built up my strength, restored my appetite, and made me as well as ever. I might just as well have had this benefit years ago if I had taken Vinol then."

Now if you are weak and in poor health, don't wait another day, but let Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy without oil, make you strong. We guarantee it—you get your money back if not satisfied. Piper Bros Druggists, Charleroi, Pa.

MRS. IRONS IS HONORED ON HER 78TH BIRTHDAY

Coming as a surprise Mrs. Elizabeth Irons, mother of John Irons of near Gibsonton, was honored by 21 of her near friends Thursday at the home of her son. The affair was arranged on the occasion of her 78th birthday Mrs Irons lives in a house near that of her son and when the guests gathered she was summoned by Rev J. T. Hackett of Charleroi. Upon entering the doors of her son's home she discovered the conspiracy and at once became the center of the merry circle. Dinner was served and as a tribute a fine large cake occupied a conspicuous place on the table. On it 78 candles burned.
